

Help Students Switch This Off

Students often forget to turn off the lights, computers, televisions, electronics and appliances. Switch This Off stickers are a fun way to remind them to save energy, and help form energy efficiency habits to last a lifetime.

Try These Fun and Educational Ideas for Switch This Off Stickers:

- Lead students in an active research project to find the most often left-on lights or biggest energy users on campus. Take the class around campus to find them and place stickers on them.
- Give a few stickers to each student and have them do this at home.
- Have a contest for the most effective way to use all the stickers. Divide the class into small groups and have them discuss and invent the most creative plan. Take a vote at the end of the class and the next day have them work together to put them up according to the winning plan.
- Give each student 1 sticker and ask them to think really hard about how to use just that 1 sticker to save the most energy – they’ll remember it!
- Have students take photos of their stickers once they’re up. Then submit them and your class’ story on the Switch Energy Project Facebook page, or email them to switch@arcosfilms.com

Your students can see that their work and good ideas are being shown to the world.

If you need more stickers, email us at switch@arcosfilms.com

You can help build a more energy conscious generation.

A few minutes today can make a positive impact all century long!
